It is said that May Irwin is probably the wealthiest actress in the world.

The total strength of our standing army at the close of the last fiscal year was 2,871 officers and 68,946 men.

A young man in Missouri was held up by his wife on his way to a church fair. This merely hastened the separation of the young man and his pocket-book.

George H. Utter, governor-elect of Rhode Island, is editor of the Western Sun, the only paper east of the Sierra Nevada Mountains to issue a Sunday evening edition.

The number of timber sleepers on the railways of the world is calculated to be about 1,494,000,000, and their value is estimated at about $900,000,000. This item makes a serious drain on the timber supplies of the world.

Roosevelt's plurality in Pennsylvania lacks only a few thousand of being half a million. The President's attitude on the matter of the coal strike appears to have been eminently satisfactory to the people of the state satisfied by it.

Chairman Taggart was asked how he accounted for the Roosevelt landslide of Tuesday. "Oh, there were not enough Democrats," he replied. "Well, the party be reorganizing." "There is no need of reorganizing. What we need is more Democrats."

Probably the largest black bear killed in Vermont in the past 20 years was shot by David Semor of Warren on Granby mountain last week. The carcass weighed 423 pounds. Mr. Semor refused an offer of $25 for the skin, and there is talk of introducing a bill into the Legislature authorizing the purchase of the hide with a view to mounting it as a permanent exhibit at the State House.

Conservatism will hereafter be debarred from employment in government positions where the work requires them to come in contact with the public. An order to this effect has been issued by the civil service commission. This new rule applies particularly to post-offices, and is in line with regulations adopted in nearly all municipalities to prevent the spread of the disease. The order says that hereafter all applicants for employment with the government must submit to a physical examination, if the presence of tuberculosis is suspected, and that if the disease is found the sufferer shall not receive an appointment.

Some astonishment is being expressed abroad because the czar, who so distrusts the Finns in their own country, appoints so many responsible positions in the fighting services. His minister of marine, Admiral Avelan, is of Finnish origin. So is Admiral Warrena, who was recently given a command at Port Arthur. Gen. Gripenburg, another Finn, who comes of a family that fought for Charles XII and Gustavus III is to be the colleague of Kuropatkin. "What is the reason of it all?" an inquisitive person asked a young diplomat in London recently. With precocious wisdom and caution that aspiring youth replied: "Well, you know, when a man can't bring a fight to a finish the best thing he can do is to send the Finnish to the front."

One of the women of the Vanderbilt family employs a young woman to dust her bric-a-brac. The young woman receives a big salary for her work and her hours are short and her time is practically her own. In the Vanderbilt mansion she occupies a room of her own and when she goes out to drive she has her own hansom. A saddle horse is at her disposal. "If I were to employ a green girl to dust my bric-a-brac," reasons Mrs. Vanderbilt, "it would soon be all broken. She would break more in a minute than I pay her in a year. I must get a refined, cultured young woman, who will realize its importance and its beauty and its value." And so she pays $5,000 a year to a college graduate to keep the numerous pieces of bric-a-brac dusted.

Henry Eisenbraun, chief mate of the schooner John Proctor, which plies between Hillsboro, N. H., and Newark, will attempt to cross the Atlantic in a 17-foot dory. He says that the October winds have no terror for him on the ocean, and that he can navigate the waves in rough weather just as safely as can the big ocean liners. He proposes to take food enough for only a few days, and says that he will keep in the line of the ocean steamers, so that he can get a fresh supply from them when he runs short. He will take a small oil stove on which to do his cooking, and his dory will be fitted with a small mattress and a couple of blankets. Eisenbraun will have the dory rigged with a small sail. He expects to reach the other side in several weeks, he asserts. He will steer for Madrid.

President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving Day proclamation is a document that will appeal to the American people for its dignity of utterance. It rings true, like the man who delivers it as a message to the country. The President says:

It has pleased Almighty God to bring the American people in safety and honor through another year and, in accordance with the long unbroken custom handed down to us by our forefathers, the time has come when a special day shall be set apart in which to thank him who holds all nations in the hollow of his hand for the mercies thus vouchsafed to us. During the century and a quarter of our national life, we as a people have been blessed beyond all others and for this we owe humble and heartfelt thanks to the author of all blessings.

The year that has closed has been one of peace within our own borders as well as between us and all other nations. The harvests have been abundant, and those who work, whether by hand or brain, are prospering greatly. Reward has awaited upon honest effort. We have been enabled to do our duty to ourselves and to others. Never has there been a time when religious and charitable efforts have been more evident. Much has been given to us and much will be expected from us.

We speak of what has been done by this nation in no spirit of boastfulness or vain glory, but with full and reverent realization that our strength is nothing unless we are helped from above. Hitherto we have been given the health and strength to do the tasks allotted to us as they have arisen, and we are thankful for all that has been done for us in the past, and we pray that in the future we may be strengthened in the unending struggle to do our duty fearlessly and honestly, with faith and good will, with respect for ourselves and love to our fellow men.

In this great republic the effort to combine national strength with personal freedom is being tried on a scale more gigantic than ever before in the world's history. Our success will mean much not only for ourselves but for the future of all mankind and every man or woman in our land should feel the grave responsibility resting upon him or her, for in the last analysis this success must depend upon the high average of our individual citizenship.

His duty by himself and his neighbor. Now therefore, I Theodore Roosevelt, President of the U. S. do hereby appoint and set apart Thursday, November 24, 1904, as a day of festival and thanksgiving by all the people of the United States at home or abroad, and do recommend that on that day they cease from their ordinary occupations and gather in their several places of worship or in their homes, devoutly to give thanks unto Almighty God for the benefits he has conferred upon us as an individual and as a nation and to beseech him that in the future his divine favor may be continued to us.

THE ENGAGED GIRL.

Max O'Rell Offers Her Some Advice Which is Doubtless Valuable.

Don't set your lover on a pedestal or imagine him to be endowed with great moral and intellectual qualities. He may not be able to live "up to it," says Max O'Rell. Don't write to him sentimental letters, for he is sure to keep them, and he will show them to his friends. Tell him how you feel toward him, but never write him a love letter. Don't play constantly with your engagement ring or display it unduly. Don't assume a superior air or snub girls who are not in the same blissful state as you are. Remember that you are not the only girl in the world who has been engaged. It is nothing to boast of. There are many women who are sorry that they were once engaged. You may be one of these. No; don't boast about your engagement. You may as well boast that you are a good sailor while the boat is under a serene sky and on a smooth sea. Wait till the sea gets rough. Then, and then only, will you know whether you are a good sailor or not. "Engaged" life is no rehearsal of married life. Don't make your lover the sun of your life, the center of all your actions, for he is but human and may prove sadly disappointing. Don't lavish your attention on him to the exclusion of all other ties. Don't exhaust your vocabulary. Keep something nice to tell him after the wedding, some thing which he has not heard before.

MINNEOLA FOR UP RIVER.

A new chapter has come into the contest on the Bucksport and Camden line. The steamer Minneola of the Portland and Rockland line, which has been running between the Isle of Shoals and Portsmouth the past season, has entered upon the route in place of the steamer Golden Rod. The managers of the Minneola and the Bucksport and Camden line will be Bennett & Archibald, Capt. W. D. Bennett of Bucksport and Capt. I. E. Archibald of this city. The Minneola will be commanded by Capt. W. D. Bennett and Andy Garland will for the present be engineer.

Harry Leon Wilson, the author of "The Seeker," (Doubleday, Page & Co.) has had a varied and interesting career. He was born at Oregon, Illinois, one hundred miles from Chicago. His father was a country editor, and the boy almost grew up in a printing office. While attending school, he became an expert compositor. He inked the hand-press while his father ran off the weekly edition. At seventeen, he left school, and became a stenographer for the Union Pacific Railway at Omaha. Subsequently, he went to California to gather material for an American history. He also worked as a court reporter. In 1887, after he returned to the service of the Union Pacific, he began to contribute to Puck. In 1892, he became associated

THE INDUSTRIOUS BLIND.

They Ask the Opportunity to Make Their Own Way in Life.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—About a year and a half ago, an organization, known as the Maine Association for the Blind, was formed for the purpose of promoting the general interests of the blind of this state. Realizing that direct financial aid could only assist those to whom it was given for a brief time at the most, the society decided to follow the lead of one of its members, W. J. Ryan, who had previously been agitating the establishment of an industrial school for the adult of this state who were without sight. Mr. Ryan, from actual experience, that lack of sight need not debar any person from earning a livelihood, if given the necessary training. It was for this reason that he gave his attention to the object above mentioned; and the society wisely followed his example.

But the success of this movement rests, to a great extent, with the citizens of Maine; and it is those who are working for this object appeal for aid and support. The people of Maine cannot justly ignore this appeal; they cannot justly deprive nearly 1,500 citizens of an education which will enable them to become self-supporting; and yet this is exactly what will be done if they fail to aid this movement. The blind ask to be given an opportunity to make their own way in life; only this, and no more. Is not such a request just? Is it not worthy of the support of every fair-minded person in this state? It is a duty which should not be shirked, and Mr. Ryan and his associates ask that the citizens of Maine shall not fail to fulfill this obligation.

GOTT-DILLON.

Monday, Nov. 8, at high twelve, J. Francis Gott and Miss Frances A. Dillon were united in marriage at the home of the groom's father, Capt. E. K. Gott, 129 Union street. The occasion was a very happy one indeed, to all of the relatives and immediate friends who were present. Miss Vivian Gott and Miss Merice Gott, sisters of the groom, the former a student in the Maine Wesleyan Seminary, the latter a teacher in the public schools, came home to participate in the joys of the occasion. Several other relatives and friends were present. Congratulations were many and heartfelt. After the ceremony a beautiful feast was spread and an hour of social intercourse was greatly enjoyed by all. The young couple are held in the highest esteem by all who know them, and many are the wishes attending them for a happy and prosperous voyage over the sea of life. On Monday night they took the steamer for Boston, and from thence went by the Dominion Line to Yarmouth, N. S. and then on to Digby, the former home of the bride whose father is a merchant in that place. Rev. G. M. Bailey of Camden, whose wife is a cousin to the groom, officiated at the wedding.

with the lamented H. C. Bunker on the editorial staff of Puck, and on Bunker's death became editor, conducting that well-known periodical with success. He resigned in 1902, to devote his time to writing books. "The Seeker" was his first book and a complete success. Mr. Wilson has a summer home in New Hampshire and a winter home in the Ozarks, forty miles from the city. He has a striking personality, but a retiring disposition. He has displayed more variety in the character of his books than any contemporary American author. Asked the other day why he had written "The Seeker," Mr. Wilson said: "The story told itself to me and interested me. It seemed to be one phase of the larger story that underlies the dry facts of our social evolution."

Dickens's Christmas Stories—Edited by Jane Gordon. Cloth, 12mo., 304 pages. Price, 50 cents. American Book Company, New York. These mirth-provoking and yet pathetic stories, written when Dickens was in the full maturity of his marvelous powers, are now issued in the well-known series of Eclectic School Readings. They are repeated as originally published, except that some of the descriptions have been left out, others abridged, and allusions unfamiliar to American readers have been omitted. All the qualities that have made the name of Dickens a household word remain. It would be well if all school-children could be introduced through this book to the master of English humors.

Little, Brown & Co. will publish shortly a new edition of Sarah Tytler's "Old Masters and Their Pictures," illustrated with twenty full-page plates of famous paintings. The book is intended for lovers of art, and is one of a little group written by the author, who from 1848 to 1870 was joint proprietor of a girls' boarding school at Caspar Place. After some years devoted to literary work in London she went to Oxford, and as head of one of the boarding-houses for students, keeps in touch both with literature and with the girls preparing for her former profession. She is Miss Henrietta Keddie to them, and in spite of her seventy-seven years, they find her a sympathetic friend.

Hearts That Never Grow Old.

There are hearts that never grow old, As the years go creeping by; Till the fountain of youth runs dry Through the heat of human conflict. Usurped they go, and fall; And of winter winds cannot chill them; They're warm and true to the last.

The body may bend with age, And the face may be marked by care, Grim Time may rob the eye Of the gleam which once shined there; But on the innermost altar Burns a fire which will never die Till the mortal shrine is fallen.

And the spirit returns on high. These hearts teach the young generation Of sympathy, hope and love, Of the things which bring very near The earth and the heaven above. The world will ever be grateful To the hearts that always are young, For the joy which they have brought, For the songs which they have sung.

And when to the golden twilight Of life these hearts have come, Shall they find a blessing To carry with them home? Will death not bring a melody, By happy voices sung, To the spirits that knew not age, To the hearts that ever were young?—Carl Dehoney.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Having given the Trading Stamps and Punch Cards a thorough trial and careful investigation, we have decided to discontinue the use of both on Dec. 1st, 1904 (note the date).

We have figured the expense and arrived at the conclusion that the more money expended with our Local Newspapers (in town) and less to Trading Stamp Concerns whose money goes out of town, will be more for the Mutual Benefit of our customers and ourselves.

Trusting you will favor us with your patronage as in the past and that we will merit the same by giving you greater cash discounts, on equal quantities and by keeping up our standard of Most Reliable Merchandise, we are

Respectfully yours,

P. S.—We shall continue to redeem any Punch Cards now out or partly filled. Bring them in at earliest convenience.

Congressman Littlefield has gone to Iowa to fill several lecture dates for the Ridpath Bureau.

The Universalist Mission Circle will meet in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

On the 10th of the duldest day the two Rockland telegraph offices have known in many a long month. The storm had absolutely crippled the service and all the operators had to do was sit and wonder what message the clock was ticking. When the service is again restored, however, they will make up for their inaction by performing two days business in one.

The voting contest at the Norcross Drug Co.'s store for a free scholarship in the International Correspondence School goes merrily on. The first count was made Saturday, the standing being as follows: Miss Lucy Ames, 201; Miss Edith Pratt, 191; George Ocutt, 22; Dan Shaw, 49; W. J. Ryan, 46; Mrs. P. D. Young, 42. The next count will be made next Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

W. P. Burpee, the artist, returned to Boston last Friday, and arrived just in season to have a very unfortunate experience. His studio there was in the Harcourt building, in which were also quartered many other artists. Resting from the fatigue of his journey he was suddenly warned by the odor of smoke and an alarming noise that something was wrong in the building. He went into the janitor's apartments and in a very short time the building was in flames fed by the abundance of combustible material. Mr. Burpee was forced to stand idly by and see one after another of the studios vanish in flames which carried with them the product of years of toil. Mr. Burpee not only lost all his paintings and artist materials but all the money which he had there. Two artists who occupied the St. Botolph Studio nearby pressed their hospitality upon Mr. Burpee and at last accounts he was the guest of Charles Copeland, formerly of Thomaston. He has not sufficiently recovered from the excitement of the affair to formulate plans for the future.

Frank H. Ingraham was in Portland last week on legal business.

One of the features of the Congregational circle tomorrow evening will be an old-fashioned spelling match. The housekeepers request that the ladies provide abundantly for the supper, as a large attendance is expected.

Seth Ames was arraigned before Judge Campbell yesterday on the charge of assault and battery upon Ida Kennedy. He was found guilty and will have the shelter of the Knox county jail to protect him from the next four months of cold weather.

Manfred Fitch of Pine street lost the fingers and thumb from his left hand last Friday night. Mr. Fitch is a kiln tender, but had gone into the stove mill to do some work, and there his hand accidentally came into contact with a rotary saw. Dr. Wagstaff attended him.

The Maine Central Railroad Co. has bought several lots of land adjoining its depot property, and will probably use it for additional track room. The housekeepers request that the ladies provide abundantly for the supper, as a large attendance is expected.

Evangelists Taylor and Hatch are winning in a marked degree the confidence and esteem of the people in Rockland. Their Christian courtesy, earnestness of soul, and love of heart for others make them acceptable in the presentation of the Gospel claims upon men, and personal efforts to reach the unsaved.

The second week of the services, at the First Baptist church, have been no less interesting and effective than the first week. At nearly every afternoon meeting there have been seekers after salvation, and the aftermeetings of the evening were gracious in results.

Sunday services began with a sermon by the pastor, W. J. Day, on Paul's Appeal to Caesar. The sermon based on the text "I appeal unto Caesar." Acts 25:1, followed hard after that of last Sunday. The speaker called for the enforcement of law in all particulars; and laid emphasis upon this with reference to the slot machines in some of the stores. The preacher was given close attention by the audience which filled the church.

At the Sunday school hour Mr. Hatch gave a stirring address from the words "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Several took a stand for Christ at this service.

The afternoon was stormy, but in spite of the rain the church was more than half filled. Evangelist Hatch led this service and his heart-rending practical sermon on launching out into the deep, made deep impressions. It was one of the best of Mr. Hatch's discourses.

At 4 o'clock Mr. Taylor addressed the Junior Endeavors. They will not soon forget his simple yet forceful message.

The evening service was held in the Farwell opera house. The terrible storm interfered with the attendance. About 15 persons braved the elements to hear Mr. Taylor. Some of these were men who had not been seen at any previous meeting. The evangelist took up the story of the Prodigal Son, and tenderly pressed home upon all hearts the great truth that "God waits us." It was a good meeting.

Services will continue all the week as usual, afternoons at 2.30 and evenings at 7.30. This is the last week of the evangelists' stay in Rockland. Two special sermons will be delivered by Mr. Taylor this week. Wednesday evening the subject will be "Hell" and Thursday evening "Heaven." Come and hear these sermons.

JOHNSON H. BUNNELL

Johnson H. Bunnell died Saturday evening at the home of his aunt, Mrs. G. Whitten, 2 Summer street, aged 29 years, 10 months. He was a son of the late Daniel and Mary Bunnell, formerly of this city, and the youngest of a family of twelve of whom only two now remain. Isaac Bunnell of West Berlin, Conn., and Miss Bessie Bunnell of Rumford Falls.

Deceased was a printer by trade and well known here, having been employed in the various offices where he was always well liked. Some 18 months ago he went to Rumford Falls where he entered the printing department of the Continental Paper Bag Mill. About a year ago he was stricken with consumption and gradually failed, returning to this city about two weeks ago to be with his aunt, Mrs. Whitten, who tenderly and faithfully cared for him to the end. Revs. Day and Taylor were with the young man often, their visits being a delight to him, bringing joy and peace to his soul, and the young life went to a peaceful and happy with a strong hope for the future.

The sympathy of many friends is extended to the sorrowing sister, brother, aunt and other relatives.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 1.30, Revs. Day and Taylor officiating, the remains to be taken to Presque Isle Wednesday, accompanied by the sister.

Bowdoin Wins the Maine Football Championship—Other Gossip.

Bowdoin and Bates fought out the Maine football championship Saturday afternoon, and the pennant went to the Brunswick college on a score of 12 to 6. Over 3000 persons saw the great game, which was played under perfect weather conditions and on a faultless gridiron. Three bands of music were present and their rendering of the popular tunes, combined with the constant cheering of the Bowdoin and Bates students, made the afternoon a lively one.

Bates scored the first touchdown, pushing Bowdoin back yard until the piskin was across the goal line. Bowdoin scored once before the game ended with the tally 6 to 6. The players retired to their luxurious apartments under Bowdoin's splendid grandstand. In the second half Bowdoin made the only touchdown and Tuffs & Brown, both of the efforts of Flinn, an ex-Bates man, who waded through the Bates line as though inspired with the strength and skill of a dozen men. The game was deficient in sensational plays, with the exception of punting. Very few end plays were attempted. The game leaves little doubt as to Bowdoin's superiority over all the other Maine teams this season.

Other college games on Saturday resulted as follows: Yale 12, Princeton 9, Dartmouth 15, Amherst 4, Harvard 28, Holy Cross 5, University of Maine 28, Bates 6, Brown 4, Colby 6, Phillips Exeter 25, Andover 19, Columbia 12, Cornell 6, Pennsylvania 12, Carleton 6.

The great game of next Saturday will be between Harvard and Yale at New Haven. Rockland will be represented by a number of enthusiasts.

The wrestling match between Herman Lissook and Black Fitzsimmons attracted a fair-sized crowd to Elmwood hall Friday night. It was Fitzsimmons' stunt to throw Lissook twice in an hour, but while he displayed a good knowledge of the game it was evident to those who watched that the muscular sausage-maker was several guns too many for him. Lissook secured three falls from his opponent, but only once was he in danger of going to the mat at the hands of Fitz.

The match was refereed by Robert Ewen of High Island who will challenge the winner, and who looks as though he had the power. In a preliminary match Luther Delotte of Philadelphia won from Jim Miller of Bath.

Polo is again booming in the west, and Fort Wayne heads the list at last accounts. On this team are two players well known in Rockland. One is Will Leydon, who was a star in the days of the old H. M. B's; the other is Walter Murtough the crack half back of the Bath team, when the Maine League was in progress.

Johnny Bryson has been heard from. The featherweight champion of Walling, Johnny Bryson, writes the Boston American that he is open to meet any 120-pounder in the country. The American says: "Bryson has been up the coast for the past few weeks and during that time best nearly all of the fast Maine featherweights. Young Donahue, the pride of Roxbury, is the man, however, that the Walthamite is especially anxious to meet first, and says that he will bet any amount that he can beat Donny. Chester Goodwin would be easy picking for Bryson, so the latter's manager says." We will forgive the statement that Johnny has vanquished all the Maine featherweights and wish him success in his new field of extermination. How much longer, though, will he be able to pose as a featherweight?

"DAVID HARUM" TONIGHT.

"David Harum," a dramatization of the well-known and widely read book will be presented at the Farwell opera house under the direction of Julius Cahn. The production will be the same as that which was given the comedy by Charles Frohman during its New York run, and the cast will be of uncommon strength. Westcott's book was dramatized and presented to the public two years ago. Its success was immediate and the New York engagement, which lasted sixteen weeks, was remarkable for its large receipts. The book was dramatized by R. and M. W. Hitechock and they adhered very closely to the story as woven by Westcott. They divided the play into three acts and located all of the scenes in Homeville, New York. Much of the charm of the book lay in the cleverness with which the characters were drawn and in the atmosphere surrounding the scenes and the adapters were careful to retain in the play all of those things which made the book such interesting reading. Mr. Turner's portrayal of Harum is described as being exceedingly artistic. It is no exaggeration to say that it would be difficult to find another actor capable of giving the character the touches with which he rounds out his portrayal of the shrewd old countryman. The importance of this engagement warrants a large audience, something which is already assured the comedy, its players and the assurance that the production Mr. Cahn utilizes is identical with the one seen at the Garrick theatre, New York city. Box office open at 9 a. m. No seats held later than 8.15 unless paid for. Telephone 50.

SLIM.

He was an' an' gray an' aged,
An' his eyes were squinted an' dim,
An' you never seen nobody
No bald-headed man him;
An' folks sorter smiled a-passin'
Where he was an' went their way;
But he never seemed to notice,
But kept right on 'till his play.

He could make cat-cradles dandy,
An' by gravity, when he'd made 'em
He could whistle an' 'em, too!
Till I don't know how to say it,
But 'till times just throbbin' with joy
An' with devotion, 'till somehow
Seemed like he was just a boy.

An' he'd go on home with us kids
When we'd played 'till after dark,
An' no kid could beat him chunkin'
An' no tin can for a mark;
He was old an' awful wrinkled,
An' his eyes were squinted an' dim,
But the babies held their arms out
An' just crowdin' for to go to him.

Now most all called him "Professor,"
But us kids just called him "Slim."
An' he'd watch our shirts an' britches
When us kids went in to swim;
An' his wrinkles came from laughin',
That's what he told us one day,
An' I guess they did, for somehow
They all seemed to run that way.

When us kids went in to see him,
That there mornin' he'd be dead,
He was smilin' just like always,
But we cried, an' cried, an' cried;
'Nen he said: "That's my Heaven!"
Gee! I thought my heart 'ud break!
I'll bet they all run to meet him,
An' the babies holdin' "Take!"

In the Service of the Czar

By WALTER LAURENCE HACKETT

(Copyright, 1904, by the "Short Story Publishing Company, All Rights Reserved.)

THE room was dingy and but poorly lighted. Around the long table in its center were gathered the conspirators—the men who had sworn to kill the czar. A strange looking apparition they made in the flickering candle light; some with fierce faces marked by the bitter lines of hunger and of hate; some with the enthusiastic and war expression of dreamers; others with the cold impassivity of great generals. One of the last mentioned, colder, more impassive than the rest, sat at the foot of the table, facing the president. His manner showed not the slightest nervousness, not the slightest exhilaration. Yet in an hour he meant to betray the men who sat about him to the horrors of a living death, on the bleak plains of Siberia, gaining thereby the lasting favor of his imperial master. The blow that would ruin his comrades would make him.

The clock struck eight as the president rose to speak.

"Brothers," he began, "brothers, we have all sworn the same sacred vows, we have all stood the severe tests of our order—we can all be trusted. It becomes my duty, therefore, to speak out. Our days of plotting are passed, the time for action has come. At last we shall strike a decisive blow for liberty."

He paused, but no one spoke. There was not a sound in the room. Some breathed a little more quickly—that was all. Pointing to a powder keg in a corner, the president continued:

"Our materials are at hand; our opportunity, also. The czar visits Krasnoe-Selo Thursday—"

The noise of a scuffle in the hall outside the door interrupted him. Several of the men who sat about the table sprang to their feet, the door burst open, and an officer, followed by a squad of soldiers, rushed into the room. In an instant every one of the conspirators was covered by a rifle.

"You are my prisoners," said the officer, curtly.

"By what right?" exclaimed the president. He alone seemed cool; the rest stood as though paralyzed. Ignoring the president, the officer glanced at the others.

"Line up against the wall," he ordered. Silently they obeyed him—powerless to resist. The officer turned to his men and gave a sharp order. The soldiers raised their guns and aimed them at the defenseless breasts of the prisoners.

Again the president spoke:

"What do you mean to do?" cried. "To execute you at once?" returned the officer, coldly. Then to the soldiers: "Take aim. Fire!"

"Stop!"

The cry rang out loud and clear in the deadly stillness of the room and the spy sprang forward from where he stood against the wall.

"Get back," said the officer, sternly; but the spy continued to advance. His coldness, his impassiveness, had disappeared; his face was yellow with fear; his teeth chattered; great drops of sweat stood on his forehead.

"No—no—you must not shoot me!" he shrieked; "I am of yourselves—I am an agent of the Third section. It was I who informed against these men—if you kill me it will be murder—murder—murder—" He groveled on the floor at the officer's feet.

The doomed man looked at the miserable wretch with bitter contempt, while in the president's eyes there was something that looked like triumph.

"An agent of the police," said the officer, doubtfully. "You have your credentials?"

"Yes—yes," screamed the wretch, tearing a piece of paper from his pocket and handing it to the officer, "it is there—it is there. Ah, my God!"

This last exclamation was one of renewed terror, for the soldiers, dropping their rifles, had sprung upon him, and were binding him hand and foot.

The president stepped forward, with a smile.

"Brothers," said he, to the amazed men, who still stood against the wall, "brothers, in a great cause, like ours, we cannot be too careful. This little scene was devised to discover what traitors we had amongst us. It has succeeded. You, who have proved faithful, are quite safe."

The men looked at him as though they could scarcely credit their senses; then one or two began to sob, and one man laughed.

"And this spy?" he questioned.

A fierce murmur raged in the room; the men, with one accord, started toward the corner, where the man lay bound.

"Kill him—kill him!" they shouted. The president raised his hand.

"Stop," cried he, "the man is mine, mine to punish as I see fit. Leave him to me. You will accompany my brother Vassiloff," indicating the pseudo officer, "to a place of refuge. From our friend's admission, we are no longer safe here."

"But—"

"I have spoken," said the president, sternly.

The conspirators turned and silently went out. As the man who had laughed passed the spy he kicked him in the face and laughed again.

Then the president was alone with the spy. He stood looking at him for a moment, a cruel smile on his white-bearded face. Presently he took from his pocket a long fuse, placed one end in the powder keg, and wound the other about one of the tallow candles, an inch from the burning wick. Then he placed the candle in front of the spy's face, where he could almost touch it, and, turning, went to the door. At the threshold he paused.

"Your fate will be a lesson to your fellow spies," he said—and was gone. The spy heard his steps as he went down the passage; he counted them till they died away in the awful silence of the night. Then he looked at the candle. How long would it take an inch of tallow to burn? The police would not come till nine. Would it last till then? He looked at the clock. Twenty minutes past eight. Would that inch of tallow last 40 minutes? If it should not, would being blown up be so painful?

He looked at the candle again; it seemed to melt away before his eager gaze. He tried to shriek, but could not. . . . the bruise on his face, where the man had kicked him, hurt fearfully. . . . he became unconscious.

He dreamed of his mother, dead years before. . . . He thought that he was a child again and that she had taken him on her lap, and was telling him the old stories that he loved. It was summer, and he could hear the reapers singing. . . . He laughed with happiness.

He opened his eyes. The darkness of the room frightened him, and he tried to call his mother. The gas was still in his mouth, and like a flash the whole dreadful, sickening truth came back to him. The hands of the clock pointed to 20 minutes before nine, and the candle was more than half burned. He shook like a leaf; a dreadful nausea sickened him.

Again he looked at the clock. Ten minutes of nine. The candle seemed to burn slower. Was there still hope? Would the police come on time—would they come on time? He strained his ears to hear their coming, but there was no sound. Good God, would they be late?

It was five minutes of nine. He tried to pray. He was lost. No! At last he could hear the soldiers approaching; but the clock was striking nine. A knock on the door, and the flame had touched the fuse. He watched the spark as it crept, like a snake, across the floor, nearer, nearer, nearer to the keg. He tried to scream. . . . The sound of a door being broken open. . . . The footstep of men on the passage, outside the door, but the spark had reached the keg. . . . A flash—

A second later, when the soldiers entered, they saw a sight that frightened even them, used to fearful sights as they were. A dead man, bound and gagged, lay upon the floor. His face was green with terror, his hair snow white, and his eyes red, staring and protruding.

On the floor was the black mark where a fuse had burned, and in one corner was a powder keg—empty!

WOMEN IN NEW PROFESSION

In Boston Certain Authors Employ Educated Assistants in Obtaining Literary and Historical Data.

Among the new ways educated women have discovered to earn a comfortable living in Boston is one that might be called the profession of "author's assistant." Who would have thought a score or more years ago that a writer of novels could develop into a captain of industry that he could relegate to the shoulders of a corps of helpers the drudgery of doing for his materials? Yet such is the fact in the case of many of today's well-known fiction writers. They pay, and pay well, for having historical incidents and mysteries dug out of ancient library records. Then, having collected and sifted their facts, they go down to work and turn out a book. It is true that many of the successful authors have moved to New York, but the re-juvener of the Boston public library are so great that the author's assistants work here by correspondence.

The work of the "author's assistant" is no haphazard undertaking. The author who employs her gives explicit directions. He intends to write a novel, say, about Louis XI. of France or Henry VIII. of England, or George Washington. In a general way he has worked out his plan, dealing with some particular incident. But in order to perfect the plot, make the characters true and portray the real life of the time he needs an endless lot of detailed information. He must know all there is to be known about his incident or period.

Most of the "author's assistants" learn typewriting; some of them think it well, though not obligatory, to master shorthand.

A popular English author was wholly incapacitated from work by a lady who lived next door and strummed through Handel's "Messiah." His idea of the inviolability of an Englishman's house did not allow him to send in any message, and he was at his wits' end till he saw in a daily paper that steam whistles could be bought to fit on to kettles. He provided himself with one and put the kettle on the fire in the room nearest the singer. As soon as the whistle began he went out. Of course the bottom came off the kettle, but it cost little to solder it on again, and after two or three solderings the lady took the hint.

Good Luck For Turtles at Least.

The Chinese have a peculiar custom with regard to turtles, which they consider a very good omen. Almost any day one can see these creatures, some of them of huge size, being carried on board the river steamers, not to be taken to Canton for culinary purposes, but to be dumped into the sea and restored to liberty and freedom. Good luck is thought to follow—Hongkong Press.

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Thompson, of Lillydale, N.Y., Grand Worthy Wise Templar, and Member of W.C.T.U., tells how she recovered by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. PINKHAM:—I am one of the many of your grateful friends who have been cured through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and who can to-day thank you for the fine health I enjoy. When I was thirty-five years old, I suffered severe backache and frequent bearing-down pains; in fact, I had womb trouble. I was very anxious to get well, and reading of the cures your Compound had made, I decided to try it. I took only six bottles, but it built me up and cured me entirely of my troubles. My family and my relatives were naturally so gratified I was. My niece had heart trouble and nervous prostration, and was considered incurable. She took your Vegetable Compound and it cured her in a short time, and she became well and strong, and her home to her great joy and her husband's delight was blessed with a baby. I know of a number of others who have been cured of different kinds of female trouble, and am satisfied that your Compound is the best medicine for sick women."—MRS. ELIZABETH H. THOMPSON, Box 105, Lillydale, N.Y.

Patience—That was the sixth time she's been married, and yet she looked nervous, didn't she?

Patience—Yes; poor girl. Perhaps she's afraid it will be her last.—"Yonkers Statesman."

Not Familiar with Him.

"Have you ever read any of the teachings of Buddha?" asked Mrs. Oldcastle.

"No," replied her husband as they seated themselves in the sumptuous library. "Where's he teaching?"—"Chicago Record-Herald."

Two Kinds of Pumps.

He—Those pumps my brother bought a few months ago were worn out already. She—He must be a great dancer?

"Dancer nothing! He's a milkman!"—"Yonkers Statesman."

A Heavy Load.

To lift that load off of the stomach take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat. Sour stomach, belching, gas on stomach and all disorders of the stomach that are curable, are instantly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. S. P. Storrs, a druggist at 297 Main street, New Britain, Conn., says: "Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is giving such universal satisfaction and is so surely becoming the positive relief and subsequent cure for this distressing ailment that I feel that I am always sure to satisfy and gratify my customers by recommending it to them. I write this to show how well the remedy is spoken of here." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure was discovered after years of scientific experiments and will positively cure all stomach troubles. Sold by Wm. H. Kiltredge.

A Good Complexion.

"Sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks restored by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers," so writes S. P. Moore, of Nacogdoches, Tex. A certain cure for biliousness, constipation, etc. Small pill—easy to take—easy to act. Sold by W. H. Kiltredge.

Hives are a terrible torment to the little folks, and to some older ones. Easily cured. Doan's Ointment never fails. Instant relief, permanent cure. Many drug stores sell it.

EXPOSED TOO MUCH.

Speaking one day of club sociability, Hy Mayer, the cartoonist, told of a club to which he was invited while in Berlin. The club was composed of elderly Germans, who met in a back room to drink beer and smoke. At intervals one of the clubmen would move his pipe from his mouth, nod his head sagely and remark, "Yah." After a little pause another of the smokers would say, "Yah." That was the extent of their conversation. "One night," said Mr. Mayer, "one of the members brought his son to the club. After several of the older ones had spoken as usual the youngster spoke. He said, 'Yah, yah.' They expelled him at once," concluded Mr. Mayer, "for talking too much."

Almost any day one can see these creatures, some of them of huge size, being carried on board the river steamers, not to be taken to Canton for culinary purposes, but to be dumped into the sea and restored to liberty and freedom. Good luck is thought to follow—Hongkong Press.

EXPOSITION ATTENDANCE.

That of St. Louis Has Fallen Below the Columbian Exposition.

In the opinion of those who have visited the great world's fairs of recent years, the Louisiana Purchase Exposition is in many respects the greatest ever held. In the matter of attendance, however, it has fallen far below the Columbian Exposition of 1893. From April 30 to October 30 the total attendance at the St. Louis fair was 15,991,295, while from May 1 to October 30 the attendance at the Chicago fair was 27,539,521. This great difference in the number of visitors may be due to a number of causes, but the chief ones probably are the more favorable climatic conditions at Chicago, the greater advertising that fair received, the greater population within a radius of one hundred miles and the fact that expositions were then a new thing to the Mississippi Valley and the great West, which naturally furnished the majority of the visitors. The fact also, that the St. Louis fair was contemporaneous with a Presidential campaign may have had its influence, especially in decreasing the attendance in September and October, the months best for sightseeing and traveling.

Still, it must be admitted, says the New York Tribune that the frequency of world's fairs has worn off the keen edge of public curiosity—and this is probably the greatest of the causes which have conspired to a lessened attendance. That, notwithstanding all the facts that made against it, the fair has repaid practically all of the big loan made to it by the government is greatly to the credit of the management. It is to be hoped the closing days may largely increase the attendance, for it is not probable that such a wonderful exhibit of the world's progress will soon again open its gates to the public.

DO NOT DOSE THE STOMACH.

Hyomei, the Only Guaranteed Cure for Catarrh.

No one should confound Hyomei with the patent medicines that are advertised to cure catarrh. It is as far superior to them all as the diamond is more valuable than cheap glass. Their composition is secret, but Hyomei gives its formula to all reputable physicians and is prescribed by them generally.

Its base is the valuable eucalyptus oil, famous for its antiseptic qualities. This is combined with aromatic and healing gums and balsams, making a pure liquid which, when used in the Hyomei pocket inhaler, fills the air you breathe with germ-killing, disease destroying powder that restores health to every part of the nose, throat and lungs.

The only way to cure catarrh and all other diseases of the respiratory organs is to breathe Hyomei. This treatment has been so successful in curing 99 per cent. of all who have used it, that Hyomei is now sold by Charles H. Pendleton and W. H. Kiltredge under an absolute guarantee to refund the money in case it does not benefit. You run no risk whatever in buying Hyomei. If it did not possess unusual powers to cure, it could not be sold upon this plan.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs $1 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime; and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

THOMASTON

The G. I. Robinson Drug Company are local agents for Hyomei, nature's own cure, without stomach nursing, for all catarrhal troubles.

They guarantee to refund the money in any instance where it does not give satisfaction.

EXPLORER'S SOUVENIRS.

Commander R. E. Perry while in Buksport last week made a generous donation to the E. M. C. Seminary of a large quantity of books from the keel of his Arctic steamship now building at Verona. These books will be made into souvenirs, five by four inches and one-half-inch thick, with a photograph of the ship, Commander Perry and Capt. Charles Dix, the builder, engraved thereon. The souvenirs will be sold for 50 cents each for the benefit of the seminary.

PLEASANT POINT.

I. C. Harvey of Boston was here last week, on business.

Mrs. John Stone, returned home Friday from a week's visit in Thomaston, Me., where her son Ernest was in Rockland Tuesday.

Mrs. D. L. Maloney and daughters, Leora and Corinne left Wednesday for West Pepperell, Mass., where they will visit relatives for a few weeks.

Mrs. Atwood Byer of Thomaston is visiting Mrs. Sylvester Davis and Mrs. W. H. Trefethen.

The last meeting of Acorn Grange was a novel one. The ladies were filled by the lady members as follows: Worthy Master, Grace M. Maloney; W. O. Fannie Freeman; W. L. Avelina Rivers; W. C. Fannie Miller; W. S. Olive Davis; W. A. Annie Fillmore; W. L. A. S. Evilo Stone; W. Sec. Edith Stevens; W. Treas. Laura Robinson; W. G. K. Cora Combs; W. Flora, Olive Stone; W. Ceres, Rose Poirson; W. Pomona, Elizabeth Geyer; Organist, Lizzie Maloney. After opening the grange, and going through the regular business, the ladies worked the 3d degree upon a class of three, after which the regular officers conferred the 4th degree. A good time was enjoyed by all.

SENATOR-ELECT BICKNELL.

Brother of Rockland Man Elected To High Office in Connecticut.

George E. Bicknell of Meriden, Conn., a brother of Charles E. Bicknell of this city, was elected state senator last Tuesday. The Meriden Record says: "The feature of the election which created the most interest locally, was the contest for senator from the thirteenth district between George E. Bicknell and Francis Alwater. This contest has been the one topic of conversation ever since the nominations were made, and it was the most bitterly fought battle in the history of local politics. As predicted in the Record Mr. Bicknell won by a handsome majority, carrying every ward except the first in which his opponent received 68 more votes than he did. The votes in the other wards gave him a majority of 442, and proved that in spite of the many unjust and untrue statements made against him during the campaign the people of Meriden recognize his worth and are satisfied that he is the best man to represent them in the senate. The victory was celebrated election night and Senator-Elect Bicknell was carried around on the shoulders of enthusiastic citizens."

We have received copies of the Meriden Record and Meriden Journal published in advance of the election. The former was friendly to Mr. Bicknell's interest and published much favorable comment regarding his career while a member of the lower branch of Legislature. The Journal on the contrary attacked his political record after the manner of a hostile political sheet and dedicated a large front page cartoon to him. Mr. Bicknell won handsomely in spite of the opposition. He seems to have a faculty for winning.

HURRICANE ISLE

News was received here this week of the death of Mrs. Brune in Italy. She will be remembered by a good many here as she left this place a year ago for her home at that time. She was very much respected here and always associated with the English speaking class, and was very popular with most of the people here who will be sorry to hear of her death. She was a little over thirty years of age.

Mrs. Morrison and daughter Maggie, Adeline Smith and Mrs. Bend and son Walter W. were in Rockland Saturday.

Byron Wilson visited his home in Thomaston Saturday and Sunday.

Fred Vinal visited in Rockland Saturday.

Mrs. Duran and Mrs. Vin Testa were in Vinalhaven last week.

Quite a number of stone cutters and quarrymen have been discharged here and work is not going so prosperously.

There was no school Tuesday on account of election.

Some of the boys have been skating on the pond here, which is very unsafe.

Mrs. Nelson and family left here Thursday to visit their native home in Sweden.

Mr. Wiley went to Boston last week.

BUYING REAL ESTATE.

Col. Charles H. Lewis of Camden and E. H. Dinslow, a retired banker of New York city and a summer resident of Stockton Springs for many years, have been industriously engaged in bonding residential and landed property in Stockton Springs and Seaport in the interest of the Lincolnville Beach and Islesboro Realty Co. of Camden, which they control. Both of these gentlemen are well known for their alert and sagacious business ability says the Belfast Journal.

A Pittsburg despatch is authority for the statement that former Attorney General Knox is in line for the presidential nomination four years hence. Asked about it he very sensibly remarked that it was too far ahead to talk about presidential possibilities.

PROVERBS

"When the butter won't come put a penny in the churn," is an old time dairy proverb. It often seems to work though no one has ever told why.

When mothers are worried because the children do not gain strength and flesh we say give them Scott's Emulsion.

It is like the penny in the milk because it works and because there is something astonishing about it.

Scott's Emulsion is simply a milk of pure cod liver oil with some hypophosphites especially prepared for delicate stomachs.

Children take it naturally because they like the taste and the remedy takes just as naturally to the children because it is so perfectly adapted to their wants.

For all weak and pale and thin children Scott's Emulsion is the most satisfactory treatment.

We will send you the penny, i. e., a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

When You Have a Bad Cold

You want a remedy that will not only give quick relief but effect a permanent cure.

You want a remedy that will relieve the lungs and keep expectation easy.

You want a remedy that will counteract any tendency toward pneumonia.

You want a remedy that is pleasant and safe to take.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets all of these conditions and for that reason is a permanent cure of bad cold, stands without a peer. For sale by W. H. Kittredge and C. H. Pendleton.

"Little Colds," neglected—thousands of lives sacrificed every year. Dr. Wood's Nerve and Syrup cures little colds—big colds, too, down to the very verge of consumption.

In Social Circles

Arrivals and departures from this city and all incidents in social life make legitimate and interesting items of news. Readers of The Courier-Gazette will confer a favor by sending to this column items of this character.

Mrs. Alice Keen of Rockland is at West Rockport nursing Elijah F. Green, who is seriously ill.

The Progressive Literary Club will meet with Mrs. E. B. Sibley next Monday night and every club night through the season until further notice is given.

Mrs. John W. Thomas has returned from a three weeks' visit in Boston and vicinity.

Mrs. Maynard S. Bird and Mrs. Jennie Bird left yesterday for a week's visit in Boston.

Nicholas Murray was called to Portland Saturday by the illness of his mother.

The housekeepers at the Universalist church tomorrow evening will be Mrs. C. M. and Mrs. T. E. Tibbets. There will be an interesting musical program, in the course of which those present will have an opportunity to judge of the tone of the new piano.

Arlette, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tobias Smalley of Broadway, was united in marriage Saturday evening to Percy J. Good of Chicago, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Robert Sutcliffe, pastor of the Methodist church. The bridal couple left on the train yesterday afternoon for a trip to Chicago. They will return for the holidays and make their home in this city. Mr. Good is connected with a western manufacturing company and makes his headquarters in Boston.

During his stay here he has made many friends. The bride was a member of the class of 1902, Rockland High school, and belonged to the Methodist choir and Sorority Club. For the past four years she has been employed as stenographer at the clerk of courts office and that department regards with much regret the loss of her valuable services. Mrs. Good's many friends find occasion for congratulation because she and her husband are to make their home in this city.

There will be a circle supper at the Congregational parlors tomorrow evening, with Mrs. F. J. Simonton and Mrs. Celeste Wood as housekeepers. Last week's fair netted about $500.

The Rubinstein Club met Friday at ternoon with Mrs. Dora Bird. The paper by Miss Bird, delivered from memory and most happily treated, was a feature. The program was as follows: Paper—"The Ring of the Nibelung," Miss Harriet Bird.

Piano duet—March and chorus from Tannhauser, Wagner, Mrs. Dora Bird and Miss Pendleton.

Vocal—"The Evening Star," Wagner, Mrs. J. Walter Strout.

Piano—"March to the Holy Grail," Wagner, Miss Carr.

Vocal—"Mattiata," Tosti, Mrs. Mills.

The next meeting will be held with Miss Abbie Bird.

The 12mo Club entered upon its ninth season Friday evening, being entertained at the home of Congressman Littlefield. The paper was by L. F. Starrett, who discussed the German poet writer Adalbert von Chamisso and the little story "Peter Schlemihl" for which he was most famous, graciously presenting the paper with a number of the writer's poems in Mr. Starrett's own translation.

J. Rodney Fife of this city and Mrs. Carrie W. Carson of Brooklyn, N. Y. were married at the home of the bride in the latter city yesterday. The groom is the well known steamboat agent at Tillson wharf, and the bride has already won a large circle of friends here on the occasion of frequent visits at the home of Capt. and Mrs. E. S. Farwell. Her father, Mr. McIntosh, is a wealthy ship chandler in New York and has relatives at Rockland Highlands. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Fife will make their home in this city, occupying the handsomely furnished residence on Crescent street. Congratulations of the heartiest character will be showered upon this highly-esteemed couple.

For the first time in his life W. H. Crane, who created the role of "David Harum," saw the comedy from the front of the footlights, at West End Theatre two weeks ago in New York City, when Julius Kahn's company was presenting the horse-trade play at that theatre. After intently watching the company from a stage box, Mr. Crane went back on the stage after the performance and heartily congratulated Mr. Turner on his rendition of the part. Turner said that when he observed that Mr. Crane was occupying a box, he very nearly sold the Deacon the "Ray" horse, for less than the usual two hundred dollars, he was so surprised. David Harum with Mr. Turner in the title role will be at Farwell opera house this Tuesday evening.
